

Acorn Industrial Components launch redesigned website to help OEM manufacturers with more supply chain services

UK manufacturers are waking up to the benefits of using logistics experts to upgrade their supply chain – Acorn are providing more in-depth information to help them make the change

East Sussex, UK – November 2018

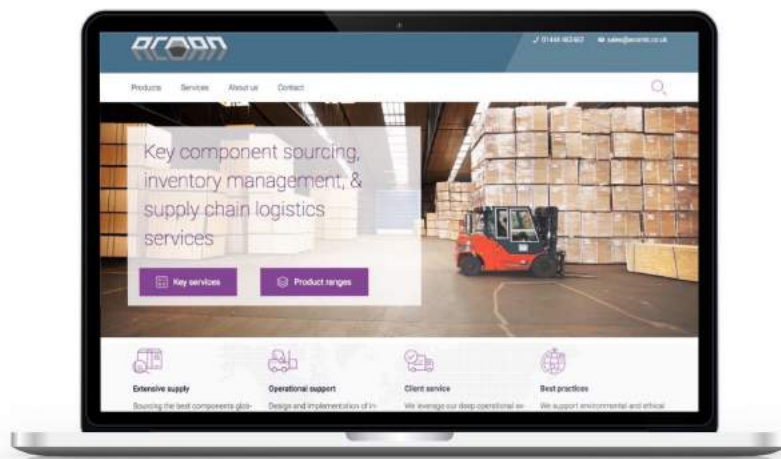

UK manufacturers are waking up to the outstanding benefits in having an expert logistics partner upgrade their supply chain management. With this in mind, Acorn Industrial Components has updated and redesigned our website to give more accessible information to OEM manufacturers and specialist sector clients who demand the best inventory and component supply.

“We’re seeing a big upsurge in existing and prospective clients wanting to upgrade their procurement and components supply to more holistic wrap-around services – when they do they invariably make their supply chain more resilient and robust,” states Chris Till, Managing Director of Acorn Industrial Components. “We’re a family-run firm and pride ourselves on creating a bespoke supply chain solution mix for each client. The jargon and terms in the field can be a barrier, so we wanted to upgrade our website to be as modern, accessible and clear as possible to provide much more information on the advantages and benefits of different supply chain approaches.”
